Stony Brook Men's and Women's Basketball Signs 16-Game Airing Right Deal With SNY
This Package Between Stony Brook and SNY Is the Largest in Program History

Stony Brook, NY: For the 2022-23 season, Stony Brook University's Athletics Department has signed a linear television agreement with a local sports network, SNY, for 16 men's and women's basketball games. This is the largest deal in the program's history and aims to expand Stony Brook's athletics program's influence and scale, and broadcast the program to a larger audience.

On this recent deal between Stony Brook University's Athletics Department and SNY, Stony Brook's Director of Athletics Shawn Heilbron said in an interview, "One of the driving forces in our move to the CAA was the opportunity to showcase Stony Brook University on a larger scale, and our partnership with SNY helps us do just that. Working closely with our media consultant CSMG, we now have the most expansive linear television deal in program history with additional opportunities on the horizon."

This deal follows a successful year last season from both the men's and women's basketball teams. The efforts from these players grabbed the attention of the fans and led to more interest from sports networks. Stony Brook's men's basketball team had an overall record of 18-13 last season, with 13-4 at home and 5-9 away. The women's basketball team had an impressive overall record of 23-6 last season, with 12-2 at home and 11-4 away.

Some notable players from Stony Brook men's and women's basketball teams are:

- Frankie Policelli who scored a career-high 72 field goals
- Tyler Stephenson-Moore who led in 3-pt scoring, shooting 44.8 percent
- Anastasia Warren who averaged 12 points per game
- Gigi Gonzalez who averaged almost 4 assists per game
